ELOPES WITH LITTLE GIRL
Alvin Fletcher of Paton, Ia., Drives Away with Thirteen-Year-Old Daughter of Employer.

PATON, Ia., April 29.—(Special.)—Officers are now closely trailing Alvin Fletcher, the young farm hand, who eloped with the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lowe. Added to this charge is also that of selling mortgaged property. The Lowe family have been residents here only about a year, coming from Kentucky. Shortly after they came, Fletcher came from the same country and hired out to Lowe. While Mr. and Mrs. Lowe were at Grand Junction on a visit the girl and young man fled, driving away from the premises with a horse that Lowe had sold Fletcher, and which Fletcher had mortgaged in payment. They drove to Laurens and there the horse was sold to O. P. Perry and has since been recovered. The newly married, as they claimed, then went east and Sheriff Wilson had been able to trace them as far as Chicago and a search is being instituted for them there.

Not So Certain About Reciprocity with Canada Being Good Thing.

WOULD HURT WESTERN FARMERS

President Taft Announces that He Will Be Unable to Attend Prison Congress in Omaha Next October.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, April 29.—Special Telegram.—In discussing the "farmers free list," so-called, now under discussion in the house, Congressman Sloan of the Fourth Nebraska district said to The Bee correspondent, when called upon to outline his position in this particular schedule: "The majority party has forced through the house the reciprocity measure, which opens without compensation to the American farmer our home markets to the products of Canadian cheap lands. The majority, goaded by the unrelenting protest which is coming in from all quarters, felt itself forced to do something for the farmers. They hurriedly assembled the ways and means committee and threw together the bill they choose to call the 'farmers' free list.' Insofar as it is entitled to that name, I am favorable to it. It being an omnibus bill, if a vote as a unit is enforced, it must be measured by its total effect.

Here Farmers Are Interested.

"My people are buyers of Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 10. They are sellers of various grains and live stock, out of which the articles mentioned in Nos. 6 and 7 are produced. If their purchases exceed their sales in the foregoing list, then might it be said to be favorable to the farmer? If they are evenly balanced, then the farmer has gained nothing and the government has lost some revenue. But if the sales under this list greatly exceed the farmers' purchases, then it is a loss to the farmer.

Vote on Each Separately.

"We should be entitled to vote on each of the divisions separately and entirely independent of each other. We have, however, been given to understand by the majority that the bill is to be voted upon as an omnibus log-rolling proposition.

President Taft today declined an invitation tendered to him by Joseph P. Beyer, Fred Miller and T. Blair Patton, a sub-committee of the executive committee on the American Prison congress to visit Omaha in October to open the meeting of their association to be held this year in the Gate city. President Taft, while in thorough sympathy with the purposes of the congress, finds that public business will prevent him from going to Omaha at this time. He suggested that possibly Attorney General Wickham might be induced to go to Omaha

School Mistress Who Holds Long Distance Travel Record

Miss Lura McGraw, schoolmistress at Pine Bluff, Wyo., seems to be the holder of the long distance travel record for schoolmistresses.

Miss Lura McGraw, schoolmistress at Pine Bluff, Wyo., seems to be the holder of the long distance travel record for schoolmistresses. She has recently mentioned in The Bee as having covered 1,100 miles, which her daily drive of six miles to and from the school she taught, attending to her household duties in town after she had made the trip. Miss McGraw tops this record by a little more than double. The school she has taught is fifteen miles away from her home, and she covered the distance on horseback every day, rain or shine, and without missing a session. Her total travel for the term amounts to a little more than 2,400 miles, which is some horseback riding. Many a man has boasted of riding shorter distances than that, but this girl has kept it up day after day, for the whole school term. Just as she had the post when the time came to open school in the morning, and then the long ride home in the winter evening to get rest for another day of work. Thirty miles a day on horseback in any sort of weather would ordinarily be considered all one would want to do work for Miss McGraw.

Young Woman Who Robbed Mrs. Armour Will Be Arrested

Complete Investigation Shows that Fifty Thousand Dollars Worth of Securities Still Missing.

KANSAS CITY, April 29.—According to a report circulated today it is quite probable that the young woman who took the negotiable bonds worth $50,000 from Mrs. S. B. Armour, the widow of the packer, will be arrested. It all depends whether or not she will restore $50,000 which she is said to have in her possession still, and which she thus far has refused to give up.

Directly after the disclosure of the disappearance of the bonds it was learned that the young woman had confessed to having taken these securities.

The young woman appeared to be full of contradiction and told Mrs. Armour's lawyers and her banker, J. P. Downing of the New England National bank where all the bonds that were left could be found.

More than $25,000 worth were found in the dog kennel in the rear of the Armour home.

In costing up accounts, however, it was found that $50,000 in bonds are still missing. It was explained that the young woman was supposed to have a rich brother in South America and it was hoped that he would make good the $50,000 shortage. The woman, a member of Mrs. Armour's household, continued to live with the widow for some time after the theft was discovered. Recently she left. Investigation proves that the South American brother was not rich. It was then that she was told to move.

The young woman threatened with arrest unless she restored the missing $50,000 refused and forthwith engaged the services of a lawyer to protect her interests.

Mrs. Armour's lawyers have been in conference with the young woman's attorney, but thus far it is understood no progress has been made towards the restoration of the securities.

M'MANIGAL CHANGES FRONT

Man Charged with Making Confession Lines Up with Defense.

HAS CONFERENCE WITH HILTON

Lawyer Employed by Unions Says M'Manigal's Reason for Making Statement to Prosecution is Satisfactory.

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—Ortie E. M'Manigal, who is alleged to have confessed a series of dynamiting outrages, made another change of front today. Despite his declaration to the district attorney that he would see none of the attorneys for the defense he held an interview with Attorney O. N. Hilton.

The latter said afterward that M'Manigal admitted having made a statement to the district attorney, but gave reasons for making the statement.

M'Manigal, according to Hilton, said nothing to him about not wanting to see anyone connected with the defense. He admitted that he had deceived when he declared last Thursday to the attorney in the presence of witnesses that he had not made a confession and did not intend to make one.

"I talked to him for fifteen minutes, said Hilton, and during that time he gave me his reasons and detailed his compelling motive for giving the district attorney the statement he made, day before yesterday, a half hour after he had told me that he would see no one connected with the defense then he changed his mind.

"All the main facts are now in our possession and you may say this: 'M'Manigal's explanation is eminently satisfactory to us. M'Manigal gave me all the main points of his statement to the district attorney when he made them.'

Nothing more definite regarding the line of defense has been stated than that it will try to prove that it was a case which caused the explosion in the Times building here.

Although District Attorney Fredericks is busy preparing for the prosecution his work probably will gain an impetus with the expected arrival here Monday of his assistant, W. Joseph Ford, from Indianapolis. It is thought that Ford will bring with him considerable documentary evidence, possibly a copy of the alleged Chicago confession of M'Manigal.

Although Fredericks declares there is no reason for a change of front, there continues to be much public discussion of the matter.

There is considerable speculation regarding the possible arrest of others in connection with the Los Angeles dynamite case, as it has been announced that authorities have under surveillance three Californians, one of whom, it is said, lives in Los Angeles and the others in San Francisco.

Thousand Men and Equipment Leave Chihuahua Saturday on Freight Trains.

EXPECT BATTLE EN ROUTE

No Attempt Made to Conceal This Violation of Armistice.

BUSY REPAIRING THE TRACK

Federals Have Been Busy Since Sunday on the Road.

READY FOR PEACE COUNCIL

Dr. Vasquez Gomez Will Be Named to Represent Insurrectos.

CARBAJAL EXPECTED MONDAY

Negotiations Will Begin Soon After His Arrival—Gonzales is Quite Doubtful of Agreement Being Reached.

CHIHUAHUA, April 29.—More than 1000 freight cars loaded with 1,000 federal troops and equipment left here over the Mexican National railroad today for Juarez. The troops are commanded by Generals Rabago and Grocco and are provided with field guns and ammunition for heavy action.

Since Sunday workmen under military guard have been hurriedly repairing the railroad north of here and today it was to be repaired as far north as Saiz, thirty miles.

The troops were to take train as far as Saiz and from there march overland to Juarez.

No efforts are made here to conceal the expectation that before they reach Juarez the federal troops will be encountered by the insurrectos and that a serious conflict will result.

The movement of federal reinforcements northward was being expected in Chihuahua just at a time when officials were giving out information that an armistice was being arranged.

Preparations for Conference.

EL PASO, April 29.—It is said that with the arrival tonight of Dr. Vasquez Gomez, he will be named by General Madero as the insurrecto peace commissioner; Judge Francisco Carbajal, the government commissioner, probably will be here Monday and the formal peace conference will, it is hoped, begin the following day.

The statement that there are 5,000 insurrectos in the state of Puebla is challenged here. The last reports received here showed that there were about 1,000 of them and that only a small percentage were armed.

Madero on Corral Interview.

General Madero, speaking of the revolution in the state of Puebla, declared that he had been assured that any peace terms accepted by him would be ratified by revolutionary leaders of Puebla.

Of the alleged interview with Vice President Corral, he had this to say: "I am not sure that Corral made the statement credited to him by a newspaper, but I do know that when the revolution was in the formative stage, it was part of the Diaz-Corral strategy to spread the impression that the United States would intervene in behalf of the Mexican government. This was to make us appear unpatriotic. However, the revolution got under way and is winning, yet there has been no intervention. The government, therefore, is trying to make it appear that the revolt does not owe its spread to the unpopularity of the administration, but to foreign elements, which allege have come to the aid of the uprising.

Mexico Questions Corral.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Mexican government has called to Vice President Corral, who is traveling in Spain, to ascertain whether or not he is correctly quoted in the interview published in Mexico City, in which he is quoted as criticizing Americans in connection with the Mexican revolution. The State department was advised to this effect today by Ambassador Wilson.

The department also is advised that the federal forces at Mazatlan have refused to surrender that city in response to a demand from the insurrectos and in consequence an attack is expected at any moment.

Senor Zamacoa, the Mexican ambassador, today had a long conference with Assistant Secretary of State Wilson in regard to the situation in Mexico.
